"Staying Found in the Backcountry with Map and Compass" and "Using a GPS to Find Your Way"

With Robert Speik of www.TraditionalMountaineering.org:

"Staying Found in the Backcountry with Map and Compass," 9 a.m. to noon and "Using a GPS to Find Your Way," 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. Members: $20 per class; non-members, $25 per class. *Pre-registration required by calling the Museum at (541) 382-4754.

The two programs are designed to cover essentially the same information, but with different in-depth emphasis. A person can take one or the other, or both classes, depending on their interests. We will discuss Geocaching primarily in the afternoon class.

There is a need for knowledge about GPS receivers in Bend at this time - local stores have sold many very expensive GPS models. These classes will get folks started in Staying Found with map, compass and GPS and in using their new skills for Geocaching and other backcountry adventures. Tip: students may bring maps and gear, but need not buy any until after this class.
